Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

The Lebanon National Bank is a one-story, brick clad, reinforced concrete building with a flat roof and rectangular floor plan. The facade at street level was remodeled between 1973 and 1978. A large multi-light window on the south half of the facade has been changed into three narrow, tall, single-light windows, the entry has been recessed, an aluminum frame glass installed, the walls clad with new brick and a wood shingled awning added at the transom level. There are terra cotta cornice bands above the awning and below the parapet. The parapet features a pier at each side and a small cornice at the top.

History

The Lebanon National Bank was established by Dr. J. C. Booth with the aid of S. C. Stewart and attorneys W. M. Newport and N. M. Brown in 1909. Dr. Booth served as a state senator, mayor, physician and worked on numerous community projects such as the construction of a new hospital. Around 1910 the bank moved to their new building at 813 Main Street. During the 1932 bank moratorium Booth's bank merged into the First National Bank owned by Mayer and Garland.
